

THEATERS

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

Theda Bara, one of the most widely known of screen actresses, is appearing at the Auditorium today in "Romeo and Juliet." The play is a magnificent photoplay production was drawn up with the most scrupulous care, in an effort to keep the film version as near the text of the play as possible. Harry Hilliard, who has appeared in many screen dramas, enacts the part of Romeo, the young son of the house of Montague, who falls in love with Juliet, daughter of Capulet. The Capulets and Montagues have been enemies for years, and their duels in the streets, had led the Prince of Verona to decree instant death to any one who resumed the quarrel. Juliet is also beloved by Count Paris, but her own affection is all for Romeo. Romeo and Juliet are secretly married and a few days afterward Juliet's cousin picks a quarrel with Romeo and the latter is banished. Juliet broken-hearted and urged by her father to marry the count, goes to her father confessor, who gives her a potion that produces sleep, but Juliet's parents think she is dead as also does Romeo, who has stolen back in the night and filled with deep grief he takes poison and falls dead beside Juliet. When the latter awakens and finds Romeo gone, she kills herself. It is sad, but the most beautiful love story ever told. Tomorrow, William S. Hart will be seen in "The Dawn Maker." Election returns will be given at intervals during the evening.

OUR MRS. MCCHESNEY.

Rose Stahl this season has joined the Charles Frohman forces and will be seen at the Oliver theater Tuesday, Nov. 14, in the new American comedy, "Our Mrs. McChesney." This play is a dramatization by George V. Hobart and Edna Ferber of Miss Ferber's Emma McChesney stories. Miss Ferber is a very clever writer and her stories have been read the country over, largely because she draws her characters from real life. She has made of Emma McChesney, traveling saleswoman for the T. A. Buck Featherloom Petticoat Co., a living, breathing human being. Mrs. McChesney is such a woman as one often meets in business—clever, resourceful, brainy, energetic and able to compete at all times with the men against whom she is pitted in business. In the role of Mrs. McChesney, Miss Stahl has an even greater opportunity, it is said, of displaying her art and her true-to-life method of portrayal than in "The Chorus Lady" and "Maggie Pepper."

NEWMAN TRAVELTALK.

E. M. Newman's superbly beautiful Traveltalk "Hawaii and Manila," to be given at the Oliver theater next Tuesday evening, will end this season's series of wonderful journeys. In a remarkable group of exclusive up-to-date motion pictures and color views secured by the traveler in 1916, you will witness the thrilling water sports at Waikiki's famous beach—colorful street scenes—industries and home life of the native Hawaiian and Philippine, and all that is interesting in our Pacific possessions. The volcanoes of Mauna Kea, Haleakala will here be recreated in motion and the most impressive motion picture ever made will bring before you a night scene of Kilauea, in the lake of Everlasting Fire. In this rare Traveltalk there is much to be seen that is quaint and picturesque, much that has never before been portrayed.

Election returns will be read by Mr. Newman from the stage during the lecture.

WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN.

"Where are My Children," a universal feature film that has just closed a run of eighteen weeks at the LaSalle theater, Chicago, comes to the Oliver for five days starting played by that forceful actor, Tyrone Power, as a district attorney, Helen Rieuwe, as Mrs. Walton, wife of the district attorney and Renee Rogers in the part of a girl who is the victim of a surgical operation. The opening reel represents the portals of eternity and the souls of little children waiting to be born. They go forth to earth in great numbers and those unwanted are constantly sent back. The following scenes on earth reveal the unhappiness of such men as Richard Walton whose wife chooses to remain childless. Other wives of the same opinion are among the characters, and Mrs. Walton takes Mrs. Brandt, one of her friends, to her physician, Dr. Malfit. An unfortunate single girl also is introduced to the doctor and she dies as the result of the operation which has been so successful in so many other cases. Her death is the climax of the photoplay. During the engagement at the Oliver continuous performances will be given starting every afternoon.

AT THE COLONIAL.

"The Spider and The Fly," a modern society drama produced by the Fox film company will be seen at the Colonial theater today. It is a melodrama with plenty of action and Robert Mantell and Genevieve Hammer head a large and capable cast.

AT THE LASALLE.

Today's Paramount picture at the LaSalle presents Marie Doro, the talented young Lasky star in the third of her Paramount successes, entitled, "The Lash." It is an interesting picture telling the story of the power of an innocent and sane love contracted to modern society's standards. Besides Miss Doro, an unusual cast is seen including Elliott Dexter, James Neill, Veda McEvers and others.

AT THE ORPHEUM.

Audiences at the Orpheum theater during the first part of the week will be entertained by a show that is made up of good acts, every one of them. There is something out of the ordinary about the show this week in that there is only one girl in the entire bill, Ethelyn Clark, appearing with Joseph Howard, the king of writers of music for musical comedies, holds this honor.

Howard's act this year is a little bit different than his other vaudeville numbers. Besides presenting some of his old songs successes along with his later compositions, the act brings out some good, clean comedy. Howard carries his audience back to with his comedy, Lew Fitzgibbons, the days of real musical comedies by singing "I Wonder Who's Kissing Her Now," from "The Prince of Tonight" and "Honey-moon," from another of his successes. His act this season is the best he has had.

Gascones, in a juggling act is very good in his line. He does some remarkable juggling feats and offers comedy that is not tiresome, contrary to the alleged humor of some entertainers in this class. Ray L. Royce, who has been seen here before, again pleases his audience with character impersonations.

Skipper, Kennedy and Reeves, form a singing and comedy trio that is good. They hit some high spots in harmony and yet many laughs who opens the bills, is just about as good a xylophone player as South Bend ever heard.

RECOVER 16 BODIES

Rescue Parties Fight Way Into Gas Filled Mine in Alabama.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 6.—Sixteen bodies have been recovered Sunday night from the Besse mine of the Sloss Sheffield Steel & Iron Co., where an explosion entombed 30 miners, Saturday, and rescue parties fighting their way into the mine through masses of black damp gas virtually had abandoned hope that any of the 14 missing would be found alive.

Two of those whose bodies were found Sunday had been killed by the explosion and the others had died from gas. The cause of the disaster has not been determined.

Eight of the dead and missing were white men and the remainder Negroes.

After three masked robbers had ransacked her house at Salt Lake City, getting $2,000 in money and jewels, Mrs. E. Baum pleaded with the bandits for enough money to buy circus tickets for the children. They returned $5 to her.

The Sterling actor, Tyrone Power with "Where Are My Children" the Oliver for five days, starting Wednesday.

Auditorium today extra special 7 reel feature with Theda Bara.

LEADING NEW JERSEY PAPER OUT FOR WILSON

Newark News Says Surest Way to Get America's Best Interests Served is His Re-election.

NEW YORK, Nov. 6.—The leading newspaper of New Jersey the Newark News has come out strongly for Pres't Wilson's re-election after exhaustively weighing the issues of the campaign. The News with over 75,000 readers is one of the most prominent independent newspapers of the east. Characterizing Mr. Hughes conception of Americanism as "selfish and providial" the News says editorially: "The republican candidate in our opinion not having presented a clear cut and definite alternative policy, the News has come to feel that the surest way of serving America's best interests lies through the re-election of Pres't Wilson. It cannot forget that the most intrenched and intolerant reactionaries are in the high councils of the republican party. The great service of Mr. Wilson is the creation of a government sincerely anxious to serve the great bulk of the people instead of any class of them. It is an achievement of a wide, human sympathy, an unselfish Americanism for all Americans that would be a pity to risk by changing."
